THE WEEK'S SPORTS

ANDOVER LOSES AT TRACK

Exeter Defeated Andover Team 58 to 37 Points at Annual Dual Meet Held Last Tuesday Afternoon

Preeminently the favorite before the day of the meet, Phillips Exeter Academy realized the hopes of her supporters as well as the fears of Andover adherents by defeating the Phillips Andover track team on Memorial Day by the decisive score of 58 to 37. The annual meet was witnessed by one of the largest crowds ever in attendance.

Two dual records were broken and one tied, all by Exeter men. J. D. Mackenzie in the mile run, who holds the world's interscholastic record for that distance, broke the Andover-Exeter dual meet record by 1 2-5 seconds, covering the distance in 4 minutes 29 2-5 seconds, bettering the old record of 4 minutes 30 4-5 seconds, made by J. P. Jones of Exeter in 1909. In the half-mile run, William Bingham broke his own dual record of 1 minute 59 2-5 seconds, made in 1910, by covering the distance in 1 minute 57 2-5 seconds, thereby breaking the world's interscholastic record, held by him.

Capt. Fred Burns of Exeter tied the dual meet record of 22 2-5 seconds for the 220-yard dash, which was made by W. A. Shick, Jr., of Andover in 1900.

"Eddie" Mahan of Natick, running for Andover, again covered himself with glory by winning second place in both the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Mahan's performance was very creditable, considering that he played a full game of ball with the Andover nine in the morning.

Capt. Martin of Andover won first in the 220 yard low hurdles and finished third in the high hurdles, but was disqualified on account of knocking over three hurdles.

The summary:
100-yard dash—Won by Burns, Exeter; Mahan, Andover, second; Cray, Andover, third. Time, 10 1-5 sec.

220-yard dash—Won by Burns, Exeter; Mahan, Andover, second; Cray, Andover, third. Time, 22 2-5 sec. (Tied record for dual meet.)

440-yard dash—Won by Pearsall, Exeter; Brown, Exeter, second; Butts, Andover, third. Time, 52 1-5 sec.

880-yard run—Won by Bingham, Exeter; Laad, Andover, second; Dougherty, Exeter, third. Time, 1 m. 57 2-5 sec. (New interscholastic record.)

One-mile run—Won by McKenzie, Exeter; Wordell, Exeter, second; Gould, Andover, third. Time, 4 min. 29 2-5 sec. (New dual record.)

120-yard high hurdles—Won by Rogers, Andover; Worthington, Exeter, second; Gowdy, Exeter, third. Time, 16 4-5 sec.

220-yard low hurdles—Won by Martin, Andover; Hyatt, Exeter, second; no third place allowed. Time, 26 3-5 sec.

ANDOVER LOSES BY ONE RUN

Harvard Varsity Defeated Andover 3 to 2 on Tuesday. Errors Contribute to Victory for the Collegians

The annual game between the Harvard varsity nine and Phillips Academy took place on Brothers Field on Tuesday morning, Andover losing the game by one run. The game was a close and interesting one.

Mahan pitched the first three innings for Andover, but had poor control. During those innings, Harvard secured seven out of their eight singles and all three of their runs. Mahan was replaced by Ripley, who pitched well for four innings and was then followed by Wardwell.

McKay, the old Andover star, went into the box for Harvard at the beginning of the game, but pitched only one inning. He was replaced by Ernst in the second. Andover could not succeed in scoring on him, although they secured six singles.

Andover made her two tallies in the last of the first inning, when McKay walked Van Brocklin. Middlebrook laid down a bunt and McKay's throw to second was too late to catch Van Brocklin, both runners being safe. Reilly sacrificed, both moving up. Wright singled to center, scoring Van Brocklin and Middlebrook. Mahan singled, but both he and Wright were left on second, Boles and Beedy being easy outs.

He declares that his wife was jealous of him, but denies any knowledge of how she died. Letters written to Scheib by women were found in the apartment.

RULE OF REASON IS ADHERED TO

Supreme Court Finds Tobacco

Trust Illegal Combine

HAS VIOLATED SHERMAN LAW

Corporations Given Six to Eight

Months to Bring Themselves Within Law—Failure to Do So Will Result in Receivership and Dissolution by Court Decree—Government Sustained on Nearly All Points

Washington, May 31.—The government won a sweeping victory over the so-called "tobacco trust" when the supreme court of the United States held that the American Tobacco company and its allied corporations are operating in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

By directing that the combination be forbidden the privilege of interstate commerce or be placed in the hands of a receiver unless it disintegrates in harmony with the law within six, or at the most, eight months, the court is regarded to have dealt with the tobacco corporations more drastically than with the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, the dissolution of which was ordered two weeks ago.

Both the first and second sections of the Sherman anti-trust law have been violated by the tobacco trust, according to the court.

While the decree is regarded as unusually severe, at the same time there is leniency in its not making the combination an outlaw "now." The various elements of the combination are to be given an opportunity, under the supervision of the United States circuit court for the southern district of New York, of recreating it so there may be brought about "a new condition which shall be honestly in harmony with and not repugnant to the law."

The opinion of the court was announced by Chief Justice White. The entire court agreed that the tobacco combination violated the Sherman anti-trust law, but Associate Justice Harlan dissented from the repeated interpretation of the Sherman anti-trust law so as to call for the application of the "rule of reason" in determining what restraints of trade were forbidden by the act. In this respect the division of the court was the same as in the Standard Oil case.

Justice Harlan also took issue with the rest of the court as to the reorganization of the tobacco company, saying that he found nothing in the record which made him "at all anxious to perpetuate any new combination among these companies which the court concedes at all times exhibited a conscious wrong doing."

The court holds that not only has the tobacco trust restrained wrongfully interstate commerce in the eyes of the court, but it has conspired to monopolize the tobacco business to the injury of the public and of its competitors.

The court reiterated its determination to follow "the rule of reason" in determining what restraints of trade violate the Sherman anti-trust law.

It is regarded as settled that the "rule of reason" will prevail in the courts of the land in interpretation of the Sherman anti-trust law until at least the personnel of the supreme court greatly changes or the Sherman anti-trust law is amended. In reality the decision was nothing less than a deliberate exemplification of the application of the "rule of reason" to "undisputed facts."

From the date of the organization of the first combination the court found that there was a purpose to acquire dominion and control of the tobacco trade, not by the mere exertion of the ordinary right to contract and to trade, but by methods devised in order to monopolize the trade by driving competitors out of business.

The purpose was carried out ruthlessly, according to the court, upon the assumption that to work upon the theory or play upon the cupidity of competitors would make success possible. Such action viewed in the "light of reason" was regarded by the court as violation of the law.

On practically every point on which the government appealed from the decision of the lower court, it scored a victory. In the first place James B. Duke and the twenty-eight other individual defendants were held to be parties to the unlawful combinations, instead of being freed from further responsibility in the case as directed by the court below.

Instead of dismissing the bill as to the Imperia Tobacco company, the so-called British trust, and as to the British-American Tobacco company, the creation of the two parent tobacco "trusts," these two corporations were held to be co-operators in the unlawful combination. So, too, was the United Cigar Stores company, a retail organization with stores throughout the country.

THE WEEK'S SPORTS

ANDOVER LOSES AT TRACK

Exeter Defeated Andover Team 58 to 37 Points at Annual Dual Meet Held Last Tuesday Afternoon

Preceminently the favorite before the day of the meet, Phillips Exeter Academy realized the hopes of her supporters as well as the fears of Andover adherents by defeating the Phillips Andover track team on Memorial Day by the decisive score of 58 to 37. The annual meet was witnessed by one of the largest crowds ever in attendance.

Two dual records were broken and one tied, all by Exeter men. J. D. Mackenzie in the mile run, who holds the world's interscholastic record for that distance, broke the Andover-Exeter dual meet record by 1 2-5 seconds, covering the distance in 4 minutes 29 2-5 seconds, bettering the old record of 4 minutes 30 4-5 seconds, made by J. P. Jones of Exeter in 1909. In the half mile run, William Bingham broke his own dual record of 1 minute 59 2-5 seconds, made in 1910, by covering the distance in 1 minute 57 2-5 seconds, thereby breaking the world's interscholastic record, held by him.

Capt. Fred Burns of Exeter tied the dual meet record of 22 2-5 seconds for the 220 yard dash, which was made by W. A. Shick, Jr., of Andover in 1900.

"Eddie" Mahan of Natick, running for Andover, again covered himself with glory by winning second place in both the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Mahan's performance was very creditable, considering that he played a full game of ball with the Andover nine in the morning.

Capt. Martin of Andover won first in the 220 yard low hurdles and finished third in the high hurdles, but was disqualified on account of knocking over three hurdles.

The summary:

100-yard dash—Won by Burns, Exeter; Mahan, Andover, second; Cray, Andover, third. Time, 10 1-5 sec.

220-yard dash—Won by Burns, Exeter; Mahan, Andover, second; Cray, Andover, third. Time, 22 2-5 sec. (Tied record for dual meet.)

440-yard dash—Won by Pearsall, Exeter; Brown, Exeter, second; Butts, Andover, third. Time, 52 1-5 sec.

880-yard run—Won by Bingham, Exeter; Ladd, Andover, second; Dougherty, Exeter, third. Time, 1 m. 57 2-5 sec. (New interscholastic record.)

One-mile run—Won by McKenzie, Exeter; Wordell, Exeter, second; Gould, Andover, third. Time, 4 min. 29 2-5 sec. (New dual record.)

120-yard high hurdles—Won by Rogers, Andover; Worthington, Exeter, second; Gowdy, Exeter, third. Time, 16 4-5 sec.

220-yard low hurdles—Won by Martin, Andover; Hyatt, Exeter, second; no third place allowed. Time, 26 3-5 sec.

Running high jump—Won by Tilton, Andover; Compton, Exeter; MacDougall, Exeter, and Riggs, Andover, tied for second. Height, 5 ft. 8 in.

Running broad jump—Won by Worthington, Exeter; Tilton, Andover, second; Bell, Andover, third. Distance, 22 ft. 3-4 in.

Pole vault—Tie for first place between Carter, Exeter, and Field, Exeter, 10 ft. 6 in.; Gordon, Andover, third, 10 ft. 2 in.

Shot-put—Won by Jones, Andover; Faulkner, Exeter, second; Lahr, Andover, third. Distance, 39 ft. 3 1-2 in.

Hammer throw—Won by Kirkpatrick, Exeter; Neal, Exeter, second; Lahr, Andover, third. Distance, 160 ft. 5 1-2 in.

The officials were: Referee—Dr. J. H. McCurdy, Springfield.

ANDOVER LOSES BY ONE RUN

Harvard Varsity Defeated Andover 3 to 2 on Tuesday. Errors Contribute to Victory for the Collegians

The annual game between the Harvard varsity nine and Phillips Academy took place on Brothers Field on Tuesday morning, Andover losing the game by one run. The game was a close and interesting one. Mahan pitched the first three innings for Andover, but had poor control. During those innings, Harvard secured seven out of their eight singles and all three of their runs. Mahan was replaced by Ripley, who pitched well for four innings and was then followed by Wardwell.

McKay, the old Andover star, went into the box for Harvard at the beginning of the game, but pitched only one inning. He was replaced by Ernst in the second. Andover could not succeed in scoring on him, although they secured six singles.

Andover made her two tallies in the last of the first inning, when McKay walked Van Brocklin. Middlebrook laid down a bunt and McKay's throw to second was too late to catch Van Brocklin, both runners being safe. Reilly sacrificed, both moving up. Wright singled to center, scoring Van Brocklin and Middlebrook. Mahan singled, but both he and Wright were left on second, Boles and Beedy being easy outs.

RULE OF REASON IS ADHERED TO

Supreme Court Finds Tobacco Trust Illegal Combine

HAS VIOLATED SHERMAN LAW

Corporations Given Six to Eight Months to Bring Themselves Within Law—Failure to Do So Will Result in Receivership and Dissolution by Court Decree—Government Sustained on Nearly All Points

Washington, May 31.—The government won a sweeping victory over the so-called "tobacco trust" when the supreme court of the United States held that the American Tobacco company and its allied corporations are operating in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

By directing that the combination be forbidden the privilege of interstate commerce or be placed in the hands of a receiver unless it disintegrates in harmony with the law within six, or at the most, eight months, the court is regarded to have dealt with the tobacco corporations more drastically than with the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, the dissolution of which was ordered two weeks ago.

Both the first and second sections of the Sherman anti-trust law have been violated by the tobacco trust, according to the court.

While the decree is regarded as unusually severe, at the same time there is leniency in its not making the combination an outlaw "now." The various elements of the combination are to be given an opportunity, under the supervision of the United States circuit court for the southern district of New York, of recreating it so there may be brought about "a new condition which shall be honestly in harmony with and not repugnant to the law."

The opinion of the court was announced by Chief Justice White. The entire court agreed that the tobacco combination violated the Sherman anti-trust law, but Associate Justice Harlan dissented from the repeated interpretation of the Sherman anti-trust law so as to call for the application of the "rule of reason" in determining what restraints of trade were forbidden by the act. In this respect the division of the court was the same as in the Standard Oil case.

Justice Harlan also took issue with the rest of the court as to the reorganization of the tobacco company, saying that he found nothing in the record which made him "at all anxious to perpetuate any new combination among these companies which the court concedes at all times exhibited a conscious wrong doing."

The court holds that not only has the tobacco trust restrained wrongfully interstate commerce in the eyes of the court, but it has conspired to monopolize the tobacco business to the injury of the public and of its competitors.

The court reiterated its determination to follow "the rule of reason" in determining what restraints of trade violate the Sherman anti-trust law.

It is regarded as settled that the "rule of reason" will prevail in the courts of the land in interpretation of the Sherman anti-trust law until at least the personnel of the supreme court greatly changes or the Sherman anti-trust law is amended. In reality the decision was nothing less than a deliberate exemption of the application of the "rule of reason" to "undisputed facts."

From the date of the organization of the first combination the court found that there was a purpose to acquire dominion and control of the tobacco trade, not by the mere exertion of the ordinary right to contract and to trade, but by methods devised in order to monopolize the trade by driving competitors out of business.

The purpose was carried out ruthlessly, according to the court, upon the assumption that to work upon the theory or play upon the cupidity of competitors would make success possible. Such action viewed in the "light of reason" was regarded by the court as violation of the law.

On practically every point on which the government appealed from the decision of the lower court, it scored a victory. In the first place James B. Duke and the twenty-eight other individual defendants were held to be parties to the unlawful combinations, instead of being freed from further responsibility in the case as directed by the court below.

Instead of dismissing the bill as to the Imperia Tobacco company, the so-called British trust, and as to the British-American Tobacco company, the creation of the two parent tobacco "trusts," these two corporations were held to be co-operators in the unlawful combination. So, too, was the United Cigar Stores company, a retail organization with stores throughout the country.

A Deserved Reappointment

An interesting situation seems to be relieved for another five years by the appointment of Stephen O'Meara as Police Commissioner of Boston for that term. It is doubtful if there has been a case for a long time similar to that in which Commissioner O'Meara has been involved during the discussion about the appointment of his successor. Two classes of people have been agreed that he was not the proper official for this important Boston department—the "very good" and the "very bad," and it has been difficult for the average man to understand how this could be the case. This is no more difficult, however, than it is to understand most of the problems in which one finds the "very good" and the "very bad" taking the same stand on many questions.

The very good have protested because Mr. O'Meara has recently stated that he knows there is vice in Boston, that he knows of certain forms of law-breaking and misconduct, and that he further knows that it is impossible to stamp out the forms of misconduct and law-breaking such as the "very good" have protested against loudly. Mr. O'Meara has spoken as the practical man possessing knowledge of the situation, courage to face it, and courage to acknowledge that it is impossible to entirely solve it. The Governor has done wisely in recognizing that such protests as the "very good" have made, have not been based on either intelligent judgment or sufficient knowledge to give them a right to offer an opinion as to the merits possessed by Mr. O'Meara for his position.

The reason why the very bad have opposed Mr. O'Meara is because Mr. O'Meara has been a terror to the evil-doers whom the law can reach, and who have not found it easy to ply their ways during his administration of police affairs in Boston. He has made an excellent police official. He possessed the qualities out of which they make efficient administrators of such places as he holds, when he entered upon his work, and he has added to his qualifications by five years of service. Boston is fortunate that he is retained in his present position. He has been the real Police Commissioner. That he will continue to be the real Police Commissioner is assured both by the character of the man and the fact that he will have five years more in which to perform the duties of his office. It is an excellent appointment, creditable to the Governor and assuring a well managed police department for the chief city of the Commonwealth.

Legislation the only Growing Thing

The dry spell is very serious. Unless there is a pretty early change from present conditions, it is going to be a rather expensive luxury to feed live stock next winter, for the hay crop and most other crops will be extremely light. The man who lives in the block without a spear of grass at hand, and with no interest in agriculture, is probably at about this moment writing some squib for the funny column of a metropolitan newspaper about the woes and misery of his country cousin. His writing may appear funny to himself and some other people, but it would be a good thing if such a fellow and all his readers who enjoy his gibes could get into the open and get a taste of the product of the country, and get a knowledge of what that product means to the city dweller.

The city dweller and his legislative representatives appear at the State House year after year protesting against the increasing price of milk and the higher cost of living, and in order to be sure that the pure food reaches the tables of the city dweller, law after law is passed, until that side of the average agriculturalist's life has been so emphatically tied up there is practically nothing left for him to do but to raise the price or go out of business. Then along comes the dry spell, a dry spell such as we have had for the last three years with almost no let-up, a dry spell that brings almost every kind of insect into action and practically stops in some sections every growing thing. Then the other side is closed up and milk that is ten cents a quart today may appear cheap a year or two hence at fifteen unless legislation on the one hand calls a halt, and weather conditions on the other hand show a change.

Making Young Patriots

Several columns of space in today's issue are devoted to the Memorial Day programs of the local public schools. At the first glance it would seem to some of our readers as if this was considerable space to devote to this incidental side of the important celebration marking Memorial Day itself. But there is much more need at the present time of emphasizing the value of Memorial Day lessons to the young boy and girl than there is even in the conduct of the older people on Memorial Day.

There isn't much direct instruction these days in the important lessons of patriotism, self-denial, and sacrifice for the good of country for which Memorial Day and Fourth of July and other similar holidays stand. Too few of the average men and women of the generation aged from twenty to thirty have any appreciation of what sacrifices are underneath the structure making up the present day American nation, yet they know more about these important things than will the children who follow them, unless there is an awakening such as the Memorial Day programs indicate.

It will be only a short time before the boys and girls who took part in such large numbers in the exercises of last Monday will themselves be the burden-bearers of the nation. Teach them now what the nation stands for, at what cost its present high position has been attained, what sacrifices are underneath it and behind it, how the call of the present is none the less strenuous, how the drummer boy of '61 may find his counterpart in the drummer boy of 1911, even though the field of action for one was in a bloody war, and for the other in a day of so-called peace. Let the flag have its true significance for these kids. Let the gray hairs of the old veterans teach them respect for elders such as too many of them fail to show. Let our free institutions mean something more than resting-places for lazy bones, or hospitals for incompetents.

Their problems are even greater than were those of their forefathers, and for this reason we welcome not alone the stories of the little simple sayings and doings of the children on the day before Memorial Day, but we welcome more gladly the purpose evidenced on the part of those directing affairs, to make better patriots, and therefore better citizens, of the men and women of tomorrow.

Editorial Cinders

It is said that the men who lose their heads the quickest under the excitement that attends any sort of speed mania are those who feel the strongest against such affairs when away from them. If this is so, the writer would be a perfect crank as a spectator of one of those eighty-mile-an-hour automobile races. At this distance nothing approaches in foolishness such a race as was held at Indianapolis on Memorial Day in which men deliberately took the chance that they knew there was, of rushing into serious accident and probable death. To be sure, the prizes were large, and the satisfaction of "holding a record" is pretty inviting to most people, but law-makers might go a great deal farther and find a less fertile field for their energies, than the field of automobile racing where there are such serious dangers as those in evidence in Indianapolis this week.

Andover isn't warming up very rapidly this year on the baseball question. This is possibly due to the manner in which the average Phillips Academy team overshadowed most of the local baseball aggregations, but there is frequently as much fun in the more poorly played game, if all the skill that is possible is made use of, as there is in such a game as the skilled players at Phillips give to the public. The Playstead is improved and will be better with each succeeding Saturday, and there are many people in town who would be glad to see a ball nine organized that would give Saturday afternoon pleasure all through the summer.

While the water supply of Andover gives but slight indication of the drought that is manifest all around us, may we suggest that before Andover does feel the present dry spell through a lowering of the water supply, a few more streets be sprinkled with some satisfactory dust-layer as a conservation of natural resources timely and important for our own community. And speaking of dust-laying, what would you say, Mr. Citizen, if we were to have it done by some experienced help the next time it is done on the Main Street or on the back road? Don't all speak at once.

The completion of the sidewalk on Andover Hill, as a part of the original plan to improve that section of the town, gives added emphasis to the value of this improvement. The beautiful old Phelps residence, now the home of Rev. and Mrs. Stackpole, begins to show the possibilities of what the adornment of the homes in that section may be under the new arrangement. No one will for a moment begrudge the land that is being taken into these beautiful lawns for they will of themselves make an adornment for that section, striking and beautiful.

The beautiful new banking rooms of the Andover Savings Bank are now in shape, and are being used with a deal of satisfaction by the bank officials and bank patrons. These remodelled rooms make one of the most efficient banking apartments that can be found in any country town in the state, and are a credit not only to the owners of the building but to those who have planned so wisely for a growth that seems to be assured to the Andover Savings Bank.

Exeter game next Saturday, and from all appearances the same old story is likely to be written, for Andover's team is one of the rare teams of the year. We shall all rejoice if the baseball victory comes again to Andover, but alas and alack! how little attention any of us pay to the fact that an interscholastic debate was held between Andover and Exeter last week, and Exeter won!

IN HONOR OF THE DEAD

Simple but Impressive Ceremonies Conducted by Local G. A. R. Men on Tuesday, Professor Charles H. Forbes Orator of the Day.

Contrary to his usual custom, the weather man was kind on Tuesday, and the large crowd of men, women and children who turned out to witness or participate in the exercises of Memorial Day, rejoiced in almost perfect spring weather.

The observances of the day were no less impressive than they have been in former years, and for many, were tinged with sadness, as the ranks of the veterans are much thinner this spring than they were last. Four members of General William F. Bartlett Post have been laid at rest since last Memorial Day, and two other old soldiers, non-members of the post have also passed away.

Gen. William F. Bartlett Post 99, members of the Woman's Relief Corps, and Sons of Veterans, attended divine service at the West church last Sunday morning, where Rev. Dean A. Walker preached an appropriate sermon on "The Test of Time."

The program for the service was in part as follows:

Anthem by Choir. Hymn of Peace Responsive Reading, Psalm 144. Gloria Hymn.
Congregation
Scripture, I Cor. 3
Solo. Invocation. Berwald
Pastoral Prayer. Miss Caroline Burt
Anthem by Choir, To Thee, O Country
Hymn. Eichberg
Congregation
Sermon, I Cor. 3: 13. The Test of Time.
Hymn.
Congregation
Benediction

Early Tuesday morning the various organizations met at G. A. R. hall and formed their line of march as in former years. A new feature this year was a detail of Boy Scouts, which made a very pleasing appearance in their khaki suits, and was a welcome addition to those doing escort duty.

The first thing on the day's program was the decorating of the tablet in Memorial Hall. This simple ceremony consumed only a few moments, and the march was resumed to the Town Hall, where a goodly audience had gathered to witness the exercises.

The platform was occupied by the officers of the organizations, Professor Charles H. Forbes, the orator of the day, and guests, including the clergymen of the town, the selectmen and others. The space in front of the platform was reserved for a large chorus of school children, whose singing under the leadership of the instructor in music, Henry L. Stone, added effectively to the program.

The orders of the day were read by Adjutant J. Warren Berry; E. Kendall Jenkins, read Lincoln's Gettysburg address. Music by the Andover Brass Band also constituted part of the program.

Professor Forbes' address was, however, the principal feature of the morning. It was as follows:

"Veterans of a Nation's Wars"—From the pen of one whom we claim as an Andover woman, and whose body lies in our little sacred ground on the Hill, sprang a story of woe that was read wherever letters are known. That book was one of the powerful levers set under the prison walls of servitude to overthrow them. Uncle Tom's Cabin became the most widely known house in the world.

"The roots of civil strife were bedded in the very beginnings of our national existence. In the early years of our congress arose serious contentions, resulting from the overweening zeal for domination in men who were used to human creatures as chattels. Slavery was an institution teeming with greed and avarice, and out of these spring trouble. Powerful voices had all along been raised against the encroachments of the iniquitous system. Political parties had fought, and indeed won, battles against its extension in our extending land, but in 1860 the great body of northern voters had not yet felt it their bounden duty to interfere in the accepted property rights of the southern states.

"But when states seceded from a Union in which northerners had been taught to find their strength, then the fires of patriotism were stirred. A Confederacy was formed whose vice-president openly boasted that 'its corner stone rested upon the great truth that the negro is not the equal of the white man; that slavery is his natural and normal condition,' and that 'this our new government is the first in the history of the world based upon this great physical, philosophical, and moral truth.' Its constitution was designed to protect and secure this nefarious system. Even then the Union government was loath to take steps of repression. But at last, when armed attack was made on federal forces and federal possessions, then went forth the clarion call of Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States for 75,000 volunteers to enforce the law of the land, and to put down rebellion against the Union. Here was a question upon which men thought one thought, felt one feeling, and the response was immediate. The long drawn out struggle cleared the land of the noisome pestilence of slavery."

Special Town Meeting Called

A special town meeting for the election of a new Town Clerk and a Tax Collector has been called for Saturday, June 24, at 12 o'clock.

There are two articles in the warrant, the first, to choose a Town Clerk for the unexpired term of Abraham Marland, deceased, also a Collector of Taxes for the unexpired term of George A. Higgins, resigned; second, to transact any other business that may legally come before the meeting.

The polls may be closed at four o'clock p.m.

"Buffalo Bill" in Lawrence

Considerable interest has been aroused in this vicinity through the announced appearance of Buffalo Bill's Wild West and Pawnee Bill's Far East at Lawrence, June 8.

Col. Wm. F. Cody, the original and only "Buffalo Bill," travels with the big exhibition and positively appears at every performance, rain or shine, but this will be his farewell appearance. To the small boy and grown-up "Buffalo Bill" will be the chief attraction. One of the principal contests of the red men, in which he took active part, will be pictured in the open-air melodrama, the Battle of Summit Springs, an engagement in miniature introducing more than one hundred Indians and as many cavalrymen and soldiers. Contrasted with this scene will be an Oriental spectacle which will picture the gorgeous beauties of the Far East. Turning again to American history, there will be An Attack Upon an Emigrant Train and A Holiday at "T-E" Ranch.
 Rossi's Musical Elephants will be a particularly attractive feature, and as an individual feature of the exhibition Ray Thompson's Trained Western Range Horses will be shown in feats of grace and equine skill.
 Sharpshooting by Johnny Baker will be a particularly attractive feature, and a bunch of bucking bronchos will furnish the principal comedy element of a truly exhilarating and strenuous exhibition.

Guild Notices

Owing to possible Andover-Exeter celebrations and other entertainments there will be no open house at the Guild this week, but June 10, the Columbian orchestra will again furnish the music for an evening in the gymnasium.

Beginning June 1, Mr. Guilloe will meet any members of his gymnasium classes who are interested in the track work, at the Phillips Acad-

 Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays.
 The work will continue for three weeks and is free to any member of last winter's classes.

There will be no further work for boys over twelve this summer as Mr.
 Guilloe is to be in the Lowell Playground association and no field is available for supervised work at present.

Wedding

FOSTER-LOWD

The marriage of William Harnden
 Foster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank
 M. Foster, and Miss Marion Dorothy Lowd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
 Joseph H. Lowd, was celebrated on Saturday evening, May 27, at half after six o'clock, at the home of the bride, 29 Bartlett street, and was attended by the immediate relatives.

The rooms were attractively decorated for the occasion, by Warren L.
 Johnson, with palms, potted plants, bridal wreath, and carnations.

To the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march, played by Miss Constance Freeman of Boston, the bride entered the room on the arm of her father and was joined by the groom, beneath an arch of green foliage and white carnations, from which a wedding bell was suspended.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frank R. Shipman, assisted by Harry Stevens Lowd, Bangor Theological Seminary 1910, brother of the bride.

The bride was given away by her father and the double ring service was used in the ceremony.

The bride was becomingly gowned in white satin messaline, with pearl trimmings, and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and white sweetpeas. Her veil was fastened with a coronet of orange blossoms.

After the ceremony a reception was held and was attended by about two hundred friends and kindred from Andover, North Andover, Lawrence,
 Hyde Park, Melrose, Tewksbury, Malden, Winthrop, Wilmington, Littleton, N. H., and Wilton Mills, N. H.

The parents of bride and groom assisted in receiving the guests, and the ushers were Dana J. Lowd, brother of the bride, Kenneth C.
 Foster, brother of the groom, Mildred A. Stevens of Littleton, N. H., and Dorothy E. Wakefield of Andover.

Master George Hiram Stevens of Littleton, N. H., and Dorothea K.
 Flagg assisted at the doors. Dainty refreshments were served by Caterer Rhodes.

The bride is a graduate of Punch-ard High School, class of 1905, and Bridgewater Normal School, class of 1908, and has been a successful teacher in the schools of Andover and Swansea.

Mr. Foster is a graduate of Punch-ard High School, class of 1904, and of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, and is an illustrator of note.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster will spend the summer months at their recently completed bungalow in South Freeport, Maine, and will later go to Wilmington, Delaware, where Mr.
 Foster has been located since completing his academic studies.

Free Church Organ Recital

Edwin G. Booth gave his annual organ recital last Friday evening at the Free church, before a small but appreciative audience. The program was well rendered, Mr. Booth's work in Rheinberger's Sonata in A minor being particularly well done.

The selections played were as follows:

Prelude and Fugue in G minor . . . . . Dietrich Buxtehude
 Pastorale . . . . . Cesar Franck
 Nocturne . . . . . E. D'Every
 Berceuse . . . . . W. L. Twining
 Caprice in G minor . . . . . H. Crachet
 Sonata in A minor Op. 98 . . . . . Josef Rheinberger Tempo moderato . . . . . W. Ralph Driffill Intermezzo . . . . . William Faulkes
 Fuga cromatica . . . . .

Horse Thief Caught

The stranger who hired a team from Morrissey's stables in 1908 and failed to return it, and for whom the police not only of Andover, but of several other cities and towns as well have been hunting for three years, was finally caught in Haverhill this week.

The man's name is Harvey Baker, or George Gilmore, and he is wanted

 in Andover, Dover, Portsmouth, Saco, Portland, and in Haverhill, on charges of horse stealing.

Yesterday Chief Mears went to Haverhill with a warrant for Baker, and after the case against the man in Haverhill is disposed of, he will probably be brought here for trial.

AMONG THE CHURCHES, CLUBS AND SOCIETIES

O'MEARA AGAIN HEADS POLICEFoss Names Him as Head of Boston Department

ACCEPTS OFFICE AS A DUTY

Declares Action of Governor is Commendation For Him Following Hearing and Publication of All Possible Forms of Criticism—Fitzgerald Not Pleased With Reappointment of Former Successful Newspaper Man

Boston, June 1.—Governor Foss sent to the executive council yesterday afternoon the reappointment of Stephen O'Meara to be police commissioner of Boston. The council confirmed the nomination under suspension of the rules.

Police Commissioner O'Meara received word of his reappointment yesterday afternoon, and he shortly afterwards gave out the following:

"The action of the governor and council was taken without previous notice to me. I have had no communication with the governor on the subject of a reappointment and I have expressed neither to him nor to any other person a wish to continue in office. All the more, then, do I appreciate what he has done. It is in the nature of a decision by the highest authority following the hearing and publication of all possible forms of criticism upon the police department and the police commissioner."

"My desire and the desires of my family would draw me away from a position so difficult and laborious, and I have a right to say that by my service of five years I have fulfilled my obligations as a citizen. But the action of the governor has imposed upon me the responsibility for the immediate future of the police department, whether I accept the appointment or decline, therefore I shall accept it."

"I take this opportunity to thank the newspapers and those citizens whose generous expressions of approval of my work have been given without suggestion from me and at all times through the months in which I have imposed silence upon myself lest by the utterance of even a single word I should appear to solicit an appointment."

Mayor Fitzgerald, when told of the reappointment of O'Meara, made this statement:

"Every Democratic leader in Massachusetts with whom I have talked is in hearty accord with my office and they feel that from a party standpoint there ought to have been a change in the head of the police system of Boston."

"There is no feeling against O'Meara personally, but we, as Democrats, have felt that as this office has been a partisan one for twenty-five years a Democrat ought to have been named for the place. None of those who placed Governor Foss in the place he occupies had anything to do with the reappointment of O'Meara."

Stephen O'Meara is one of the best known men in Boston, where he has lived since he was a child. Born in Charlestown, P. M. I., 57 years ago, he came with his parents to Charlestown when but 10 years old. Charlestown in those days was a city by itself, but it was a part of Greater Boston always.

When O'Meara was 18 years old he became a reporter on the Boston Globe and stayed on the staff of that newspaper for about two years. He then went to work on The Journal staff and while there occupied successively the positions of city editor, general manager, editor-in-chief and publisher. Nearly nine years ago he sold his interests in The Journal to the present publisher and retired from the newspaper field after a successful career of thirty years.

DEADLOCK CONTINUES

Bass and His Counsel at Odds Over Public Service Commission

Concord, N. H., May 31.—Governor Bass was closeted with his five councilors at the capitol for seven hours but failed to break the deadlock over the election of a public service commission.

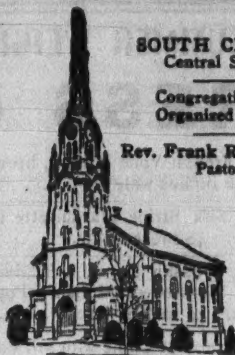

The date for another session was not set and the state faces a situation that apparently will deprive it of a railroad commission for some time.

very and of the poisonous growths of secession, but not until it had soaked the soil in the blood of its best citizens.

"The story of our country's development is a remarkable one. The South stuck to cotton, tobacco and slavery. In invention, manufacturing, city-building, railroad construction they did little. For a generation thousands of vessels had poured millions of immigrants into the ports of the North. These were free laborers, and naturally sought the fields of free toil. They built our cities in north and west, laid our railroads by the thousands of miles, opened our forests, filled our mills, tilled our prairies. They helped make the north rich and self supporting, and helped to give us the sinews of war. The South went blindly on, depending on cotton and tobacco, getting all else from outside its borders. The fleets of Europe took her products and brought her supplies, while the hideous craft from Africa dumped in her ports the dusky slaves that piled her cotton high. Could two such widely sundered systems of life exist long in the same family? The very conditions which produced our struggle made its end inevitable. The country built by freemen, supplied with all that freemen's powers in full extension could devise and secure, was marked for ultimate success. But the way to that conclusion was the rough road of human bones.

"The bottom causes of that war lie in greed. Men will surrender life rather than yield property. Inevitably does widespread aggrandisement of wealth lead to egregious errors in demands. The camel's back holds a pile of straw before it breaks.

"Your Grand Army gave us a nation, and has nobly fought to make us a people. That is what we want, a people—a people whose God is the Lord. There are still those who would serve Mammon. The structure placed on your foundation is one of which we all are justly proud. But the problems of difference and the perils of dissension are not all laid to rest with the blue-clad soldiers under a peaceful sod. The land that drank of the blood of its children trembles with the momentum of the forces that rumble on its surface. The questions of your youth are not the problems of your sons. Patriotism has a subtler task than the facing of guns. The passion for dominance the lust of power are still in men to urge them on to every device and every wile for placing their fellowmen in subjection to them. Given the circumstances and it is easy to reach that state of mind when "we want what we want when we want it." The heedless rush for gold, the boundless longing for luxury, have produced conditions that well may arouse anxiety lest the ship of state be swerving towards the rocks. Yet there are plenty of comforting evidences of man's devotion to man in our land. Never has the world witnessed such splendid beneficence for men in a world of pain and need. Hospitals and homes, libraries and colleges, technical training, insurance, churches and guilds are open to all through the munificence of many. In a hard world there are many soft spots. All this is admirable, but in its train follow responsibilities. Out of concessions develop rights. The taste of luxury makes the demand for luxury, and the claims of men soon grow in their eyes to be the rights of men. Our problems are problems of curbing; the curbing of monopoly, of aggrandisement, of political unrighteousness on the one hand, and the curbing of the withering touch of dissipation on the other. The wisdom of a Solomon and the righteousness of a Job are needed to cope with the contending forces. There is a mighty stir in the masses of men and that stir seems to be headed towards the fleshpots of Egypt. Public opinion is awake with us, and public opinion needs guidance. The passion for the enactment of laws is a manifestation of this ferment. Reading the records of our legislatures it would sometimes seem that we have an obsession of law-making. Yet out of this stirring much good is coming. The mandate of the people is on the whole tending to sound living.

"What made you go to war? It was the conviction of right and the will to do it. That is precisely what we of today need, the conviction of right and the will to do it. Patriotism means not only the surrender of life, but also the generous use of it for the weal of country. The soldier's glory is his grave or his victory; the citizen's distinction is his burden-bearing in the community and nation. The warrior's arm sets anew the problem for the citizen's soul.

"You freed the negro from servitude; we must free him from himself. His future is one of the baffling difficulties of our people. I am not pessimistic as to the ultimate solution. The south needs him for its labor, and he must do that labor. The phase of poetic and sentimental consideration of the negro by those who have no contact with him is over. 'In the sweat of his brow' must he too eat his bread. The herculean task of training him to the dignity of honest work for self support will be a slow process, but is there any other sane treatment? Truly the bonds that were loosed from his master have fastened him to us all.

"I have said that immigration furnished a potent factor in the conditions and in the settlement of the national crisis of the sixties. Immigrant factors will loom large in the shaping of our future. The very blood of the new generations is a widely different fluid from that which coursed in the veins of our countrymen of yesterday. We have amalgamated the inherited tendencies of the motley world in our own body. We cannot afford to allow this new wine to be stored in the old bottles of past habits. The duty of education in patriotic devotion to the righteous needs of our nation is of appalling importance. The lesson which the Grand Army has to teach needs to be impressed on every soul that enters our borders and partakes of our life; the lesson that for union there must be faith in unity; unity for the general good, unity in the benefits and cares of labor, unity in all that promotes the blessings of peace, unity in opposition to all that derogates from a freeman's honor, even at the awful cost of war.

"What is needed with us is a host of home lovers, a straight thinking, honest-minded folk who are believers in the simple virtues of right living. We have a surfeit of propounders of strange doctrines. Petty critics of petty faults are not the men who grasp at a falling flag in a forlorn hope. Love is a feeling, not a theory, and patriotism is love of country. Political organization is a means of compromises for the best attainable. And the reasonable politician must make reasonable compromises if he would attain an end beneficial to all. He must compromise with many; he may not compromise with the devil. Fanatics, zealots, men of the one idea and of the unbending neck are not for us. Moral earnestness does not commend a fanatic's narrowness of soul. The greatest of moral teachers was uttering supreme wisdom when he said 'render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's.' Carping at the faults and cracks in our political walls will not mend them, nor man them.

"Our Memorial Day is designed as a day of grateful recollection and of sympathetic tribute; a time to recall what was good, and noble, and of priceless service to country and to home. We cannot leave this duty of gratitude to you alone, soldiers of our armies. Woe to the land when its youth neglect the living memorial of praise to the fathers. Doers of what was to be done, saviors of what was vital to being, champions of union even through the severance of brotherhood—these are the men whom we honor this day. The sod that covers those slain in war's battles is older than I who pause beside it in grateful remembrance of the souls that passed through the valley that I might stand in a land big with territory, big with freedom, big with attainment. Each flag that floats today in fresh reminder owes its stars to the man on whose bosom it rests. In that little firmament we see the light of their shining hopes fulfilled. The lit-fires are multiplying fast, alas! so fast! A sterner, more unerring foe is sweeping the ranks, and he sweeps both the blue and the grey. In our western parish, on the beautiful slopes of those fields of mourning lies a new-made grave. You laid a soldier at rest there, we laid there a friend. In youth he answered his country's call to arms; in the fullness of service he answered to the last summons to peace.

"Gently, gently let us place our flowers of remembrance on the graves of the men who fell in arms, and on the fresher graves of the men who fought their greatest battles since war's alarms have ceased."

Following the singing of "America" by the audience and the benediction by Rev. F. A. Wilson, the march was again taken up and continued to the South cemetery, where detachments of children bearing baskets of flowers, assisted by members of W. L. Raymond Camp, Sons of Veterans, were stationed in different sections of the cemetery, one child at each grave. A volley was then fired by the Sons of Veterans, after which the bugle call was played, and the flowers were placed on the graves simultaneously. They had been previously marked out by flags bearing the name of the local Post. Meanwhile detachments of the Sons of Veterans decorated the soldiers' graves in the Episcopal cemetery.

Barges were soon taken for Spring Grove cemetery, where a brief service was conducted by the Woman's Relief Corps. The soldiers' lot presented a much better appearance than it did last year, as since last Memorial Day the new Soldiers' Monument has been added as well as new markers for the individual graves. During the service a quartet consisting of Fred Cheever, William MacCready, Archibald Tyler and Lester Towne sang.

West Parish cemetery was the next and last point to be reached. There in the new memorial chapel, Rev. F. R. Shipman spoke a few words, and prayer was offered by Rev. Dean A. Walker. The graves were then decorated.

Barges were then taken for G. A. R. hall, where the organizations were dismissed.

WONDERLAND

A VARIED CAREER
By L. CASE RUSSELL in The Motion Picture Story Magazine

I've roughed with the Texas cowboys
When they strung up a horse-thief bold,
I've wandered amid the splendours
Of Belshazzar's court of old,
At Hempstead Plain
In an aeroplane
I've risen to heights untold.
I have passed from the court of Arthur
With his knights and ladies gay;
Thru an Indian encampment
On Dakota's bluffs of clay;
Then 'neath the wave
With a diver brave,
Where the fishes dart and play.
For me the heroes of fiction
Have stepped from the printed page;
I have witnessed love and hatred
In every place and age.
All kinds of men
Have crossed my ken
From fool to seer and sage.
The wandering Jew you think me
Doomed thru all time to go,
A restless, ceaseless spirit
Upon land and sea below?
No—this and more
Are behind the door
Of a Motion Picture Show.

MEMORIAL HALL LIBRARY

New Books Added in May

ABBOTT. COLONEL THOMAS BLOOD, CROWN-STEALER.

A portrayal, in the light of serious historical study, of the "life and works of a man who has been generally conceded the bad eminence of being the most daring and successful of English rascals." His all but successful attempt to steal the crown, and his frustrated attempt to hang the Duke of Ormond, reveal a man of stupendous personal daring and ability. He is a man who was on the wrong side of politics and society; on the other side of the scale, he would have risen to distinction through his courage and ability.

CAMP. FINE ART OF FISHING. A well written book containing useful hints to anglers concerning our common game fish and the practical use of the fly rod. Largely reprinted from different magazines.

CHESLEY. SOCIAL ACTIVITIES FOR MEN AND BOYS.

A compilation from many sources of suggestions and experiences in the social activities of the Y.M.C.A. work. Entertainments of many kinds are described; camping, dramatics, boy scouts and socials are discussed. A useful book for social workers.

HAMILTON. PIANO TEACHING; ITS PRINCIPLES AND PROBLEMS.

Contains much sound advice to teachers on business methods and on relations with pupils, but is most valuable because of the special stress laid on expression in the chapters on technique, and for the explanation of methods for teaching the rhythmic, melodic and harmonic elements, and unity in interpretation. Includes program suggestions for recitals.

HART. JUVENILE COURT LAWS IN THE UNITED STATES.

Contains a summary of juvenile court laws arranged by states, a topical abstract of state laws governing the trial and disposition of juvenile offenders and the juvenile court law of 1910 governing Rochester, N. Y., chosen as a model.

HECKER. SHORT HISTORY OF WOMEN'S RIGHTS.

A clear, brief and authoritative account, written by a zealous advocate. One chapter is given to modern English conditions and about a third of the work to the suffrage movement in the United States, giving chief provisions of laws, and the political condition and industrial and professional status of women in each state.

MERINGTON. HOLIDAY PLAYS: FIVE ONE-ACT PIECES.

Designed respectively for Thanksgiving, Washington's birthday, Fourth of July, Lincoln's birthday and Memorial Day. Will be of practical value for those searching for children's plays.

OSBORNE. FAMILY HOUSE.

Practical suggestions, intended for persons of limited means on all the points to be considered in buying or building a home. The illustrations include diagrams showing the sunlight on the different walls in summer and winter, and many floor plans.

ROBERTS. IMMIGRANT RACES IN NORTH AMERICA.

Summarizes a good deal of information on the twelve groups of people represented in the United States under the headings: language, government, religion, immigration.

TRACY. STUDIES IN INDIVIDUAL OCCUPATION.

A very practical and suggestive book for nurses and others having the care of invalids. A large number of occupations are considered, with their applicability to use with children, nervous cases, old people, the business man, the blind, the insane, and other types of patients.

"FOR ONE NIGHT ONLY"

Initial Performance of Andover Dramatic Club Last Friday Evening a Great Success

The Andover Dramatic Club gave its initial performance, a presentation of "For One Night Only," a farce-comedy, translated from the German, in the November Club House, on the evening of Friday, May 26, before a brilliant audience which filled the pretty little hall to the door.

An audience whose cordial appreciation of their efforts was the greatest possible help and encouragement to the actors; every point was recognized and even Mrs. Goldwhinney's carpet bag and the photograph of the Queen of the Amazons had their success.

The play, without being in a strict sense dramatic literature, is good dramatic art, excellently constructed, moving on without a moment of dullness or delay, through constantly amusing situations, expressed by very witty lines, to an effective climax at the end of each act.

The cast was:

Prof. Martin Goldwhinney

Edwin T. Brewster

Dr. Leopold Newman, his son-in-law

Addison B. LeBoutillier

Mr. Charles Harkins Percival Dove

Jack Harkins Brainard E. Smith

Spartan Spurgius Spots, a theatrical manager, leading heavy, etc.

Frank H. Hardy

Mrs. Goldwhinney Miss Agnes Park

Paula Miss Josephine Abbott

Mrs. Newman Mrs. Arthur Clark

Rosa, a maid servant

Miss Amy Stork

The scene, unchanged during the four acts of the play, was the Professor's study.

The production was, taken as a whole, a good example of all round amateur team work, in some instances far above the amateur standard, and particularly to be commended, as the company had no previous experience in playing together, and in three instances: Miss Abbott, Mr. Brewster, and Mr. Smith acted on this occasion for the first time.

Mr. LeBoutillier had only played twice in the burlesques given by the Architectural Club.

Mr. Brewster made a careful effort to express the complicated emotions of the provincial scholar, his weak character torn between his literary vanity and his fear of his awesome wife.

Mr. LeBoutillier was successful to a marked degree in his impersonation of the kindly, humorous young doctor who, with unfailing patience and courtesy, endures the impossible exactions of his foolish little wife. He was particularly convincing in the difficult scenes when, a habitually truthful man, he feels himself forced to invent long and complicated romances. His air of carefully thinking up his inventions as he uttered them, was perfectly true to life, and in fine contrast to his usual simple frankness.

Mr. Charles Harkins was played with great humor and spirit by Mr. Dove. His make-up and action gave an entertaining caricature of the self-centered, fussy, pompous, over-rich man, whom he so successfully impersonated.

Mr. Smith, who played the part of Jack Harkins, gave his lines with confidence and promptness.

Of Mr. Hardy's Spots it is difficult to speak without running into the superlatives of praise. From his first entrance, with his tragic black curls, his face, with the threadbare, romantic beauty of an elderly Romeo in reduced circumstances, not to speak of his costume, so loud, if he had forgotten his lines he could not have heard the prompter, until the final tableau, he kept the audience in constant danger of apoplexy, without for an instant accepting the obvious invitations to buffoonery which the part presents. He gave a delightful rendering of a really great comic part which with all its bombast and absurdity is made real and human, as Mr. Hardy played it, by his unfailing confidence in and admiration for his boy Cecil and his wife, the Camelon Queen of the Amazons.

It was an artistic character study of the Bohemian, though at the start a flattering adventurer, when he is really at work, becomes an artist, absorbed in the artistic possibilities of his venture, and from the moment he is at work in the preparation of the play, he forgets every consideration but the desire to make his effort a real success, and becomes blind to the badness of the professor's tragedy.

Mr. Hardy is so well-known on the Andover stage it is unnecessary to speak of the mobile play of his features, the vital expressiveness of his gestures, and the beauty and range of his reading.

It was, as always, an artistic treat to look at and listen to Miss Park, who gave the narrow-minded, arrogant Mrs. Goldwhinney all the air of social distinction and the grand manners which are her natural characteristics.

Mrs. Clark looked the part perfectly of the charming but trying little bride, whom she successfully impersonated.

Miss Stork gave a very finished and clever impersonation of Rosa, the sentimental house-maid, making a pretty picture in the conventional black and white. The force and charm of her facial expression, the skillful use of her well-trained voice, were a constant delight.

Miss Josephine Abbott was a fortunate selection to render the charm of girlish beauty.

Before the play, Mrs. Winthrop Peirce, the temporary president, in a few words introduced the club and outlined its policy.

The management regret that all the associate members could not find seats, and, it is informed, some could not even get into the hall. The management does not feel itself at fault, as they requested the associate members to accept the invitation to become members before March 24, but all the arrangements were made and it was too late to provide for a second performance when most of the acceptances were rushed in at the last moment. The plays of next winter will be given twice. The list of members will be arranged alphabetically. Half the list will be invited for the first, and half for the second evening.

Why Not an Andover Athletic Meet?

We are endeavoring to arrange a track meet among some of the local organizations of young men and the undersigned will be pleased to meet the representative of any organization interested, at the R. C. O. A. club rooms, on the evening of June 8, at eight o'clock, and talk the matter over.

Track athletics among the young men of the town have not been given a deal of attention during the past few years, and a tournament among the young men of Andover should prove very interesting, particularly if possible to arrange such a date as July Fourth.

Letters have been mailed to a few of the organizations in town, but may we not have a meeting of five or six clubs on Thursday evening next?

Respectfully yours,
W. H. THOMPSON,
Sec. R. C. O. A.

Verdict of Jury Which Heard the Trial of Edwin Cook
